

EMERGENCY PREPAREDNESS KIT

WILDFIRES

You never know when disaster will strike, and this is especially true for wildfires. They provide little warning that they're coming and can be extremely destructive. It's crucial to always be prepared for the unexpected with an emergency preparedness kit that includes supplemental items for those in wildfire-prone areas.

The Basics

- Water: one gallon per person, per day for 3-7 days
- Food: 3-7-day supply of non-perishable items that are easy to prepare, such as canned foods or snacks. Pack a can opener for canned foods.
- Disposable plates, cups, and utensils
- First aid kit
- Medications: 7-day supply and items needed to administer medication, medication list, pertinent medical information
- Personal hygiene and sanitation items
- Flashlights
- Whistles
- Extra batteries
- Battery-powered or hand-crank radio, preferably an NOAA weather radio
- Cell phone chargers and backup batteries
- Family and emergency contact information
- Maps of the area
- Full coverage goggles
- Long-sleeve shirt and pants (cotton or wool and bright colors when possible)
- Respirator/face mask (N95 recommended)
- Copies of important documents (birth certificates, passports, etc.)
- Sanitation supplies (toilet paper, feminine Hygiene, baby wipes, etc.)
- Family and emergency contact information

Pets, Babies & Seniors:

- Pets and livestock: identification, immunization records, carrier, collar, leash, bowl, medications, water, and food
- Babies: bottles, formula, baby food, diapers, wipes, small toys
- Seniors: hearing aids with extra batteries, instructions about how to administer medicine and use lifesaving equipment, contact information for medical personnel who administer treatments

Tools

- An ax, a shovel, and a broom
- Rope for towing or rescue
- Sturdy shoes that can protect you from dangerous debris
- Heavy-duty gloves for cleaning up debris
- Dry chemical fire extinguisher

Besides having a wildfire emergency kit, take steps to fire-proof your home and properties and build an emergency action plan. It's also a good idea to connect with a broker to review your policies and make sure you'll be covered in case of an emergency.
